COVID-19 Viral Testing

Do you need COVID-19 viral testing done? Are you having a hard time finding a provider who does this testing? In this article you will find tips to help you navigate testing.

The Harrison Electrical Workers Trust will cover at 100% a COVID-19 viral test, whether it is in-network or out-of-network if you meet any of the following Centers for Disease Control (CDC) recommendations for testing:

- If you have symptoms of potential COVID-19 infection, including fever, cough, shortness of breath, chills, muscle pain, new loss of taste or smell, vomiting or diarrhea, and/or sore throat.
- If you have been exposed to someone who has tested positive for the COVID-19 virus.
- If your doctor recommends that you be tested for the COVID-19 virus.

It is important to know what the protocol is for the testing site before you go to the facility. Here are some examples of potential requirements:

- The testing site may require an appointment.
- Some testing sites require a referral from your primary care physician.
- The testing site may require the test be administered in the patient's vehicle.

Before you head out to get a COVID-19 viral test, here are some questions that you should ask:

- Is my provider administering the COVID-19 viral test?
- Do I need an appointment?
- Do I need a referral?
- How long will it take for the test results to be returned?
- If it is a walk-in test site, how long is the wait to be seen?
- Should I bring my immediate family to test at my appointment time, or do they all need their own appointments?
- What information will they need from me? Do I have my insurance card handy?

If you are on the Trust or Providence plans, we recommend that you utilize the Providence Immediate Care Clinics. There are 10 located throughout the Portland Metro and SW Washington area. Additionally, some of the Providence Express Clinics offer the COVID-19 viral test. If you are on Kaiser, you should contact Kaiser.
